Adventures of Tad;

HAPS AND MISHAPS OF A LOST SACHEI

A Story for Young and Old.

BY FRANK H. CONVERSE, AUTHOR OF "PEPPER ADAMS," "BLOWN OUT

TO SEA." "PAUL GRAPTON," ETC. [Copyrighted, 1886, by D. Lothrop & Co., and Published by Special Arrangement.]

CHAPTER VIL-CONTINUED. "I guess you'll do," she finally said "at least I'm minded to try you, so you can come over and begin work early

Monday morning." "Thank you, marm," replied Tad, with a beaming face. "Til be here early; brook. and though I'm kind of green, Miss Smith," he added, earnestly, "I'll learn just as fast as ever I can, and work all the harder to make up." "Well, we'll see," was the only reply. Miss Smith's faith in juvenile promises had been rudely shattered by the frequent breakages that she had known in her experience. At the same time she felt rather drawn toward this pale-faced orphaned boy-though she own self. "Don't you let that Joe Whitney lead vou into any mischief before you get back to Cap'n Flagg's," said Miss Smith, sharply, raising her voice for Joe's edification, as Tad joined him outside the gate.

"Now, Miss Smith," expostulated the injured youth, "that isn't fair!" The maiden lady smiled significantly, and, muttering something about "innocent exultant over his future prospects, forebore to reproach his mischievous comrated, and the two walked away together in the most amicable manner.

CHAPTER VIII.

Who that was ever a boy has forgotten, or will forget, his first fishing experience? No matter whether it was angling for minnows from the wharf, with a pin-hook, catching "pumpkin seeds" from the mill-pond logs or following up an alder-fringed brook in pursuit of trout-he will be sure to re-

PREPARING FOR THE INTERVIEW member it a great deal longer than he will the more important episodes of his later life. And I know one in particular who will always remember his bovish

It was the Saturday morning following Tad's peculiar introduction to Miss Smith, and an unusually mild day for a New England April, which uncertain month is very apt to seem so much like March as to resemble a younger brother.

Joe and Tad were digging bait in Deacon Whitney's barn-yard; that is, Joe did the digging while Tad placed the angle-worms in a round tin mustard-box, with a ventilating cover.

"There!" said Joe, straightening up, "and now, Tad-you plaguey old tat-

Tad looked up in dire astonishment; but the conclusion of Joe's sentence was evidently not addressed to Samantha Nason was given to gossip, less forest. and Joe's guilty conscience at once assured him that she had lost no time performance to the deacon, Mrs. Whitnev and his sister Nell.

"I guess we'd better be off," remarked Joe, rather hastily; "and, instead of going out the front way, we'll take a short cut down through the fields. You've got your lines all right?"

Tad tapped his pocket significantly, and adjusted the tin-box cover while Joe was putting the shovel back in the

"Come on, then, Tad," said his companion, with an uneasy glance at the back kitchen, which Tad did not quite understand, and with his words Joe dodged hastily behind the barn, followed by Tad; but, alas! he was too

From the open kitchen-window came the cry, in his sister Nell's voice:

"Jo-seph!-come right into the house -father wants you!" "Darn it all!" muttered Joe, with a

"Catch what?" wonderingly asked Tad, though with an intuitive suspicion that Joe was not referring to the prospective catch of trout.

Joe did not reply, but with a gloomy and vengeful expression, slunk into the barn by the small rear door, followed by his wondering companion. From behind the corn-crib Joe hastily pulled the bottom of an old pasteboard band-

box. "Shove it up under my cost, behind -quick, Tad!" he exclaimed, in an agitaged whisper, "and then you go ahead to the brook-may be I can get off bime-by. It don't burt much of any, with this," added Joe, with a rather sickly smile, as he touched the small of his back significantly, "only I've got attitude-he held his open jack-knife in is pretty nigh worn out."

"Are you coming, Joseph?"

The voice was Deacon Whitney's, and sounded from the wood-shed close by. Tad fled ignominiously through the rear barn door, while Joe reluctantly obeyed the direful summons. Not that Deacon Whitney was unreasonably harsh or stern. Indeed, his wife said: "Joe's thrashin's hurt the deacon a dretful sight more'n they did Joe,"which was doubtless true. The boy knew that his father loved him sincerely, and that the whippings were not given in anger, but from a sense of duty, and, though he would willingly have dispensed with them, Joe never cherished the slightest feelings of anger or resentment, after the first smart had passed away.

Leaving Joe to his impending fate. Tad climbed the barn-yard fence, and with a jubilant feeling of gladness, which was only shadowed by the occasional thought of his new friend's disappointment, made his way down across the deacon's meadows, to the Tad knew nothing whatever about trout-fishing, as a matter of course. He had caught flounders and cunners from the piers, like most city boysbut only those. However, he had a general idea of some of the requirements for the piscatorial art. So, with a very light heart, he followed the "mill brook," as it was called, through a field and an adjoining pasture, till he came to an alder swamp, where, havwould not have owned it, even to her ing cut a pole, Tad sat himself down to shape and trim it. Well, it was indeed a lovely morning. The sky above him, flecked with drifting white clouds, was of the deepest blue, the air soft and spring-like, and the peaceful stillness unbroken only by the occasional cawing of crows or scream of a bluejay. Tad sat drinking in the beauty of the time and place, softly whistling to himself as he worked, and thought over the Abigail," resumed raking, while Tad, many strange things that had come into his life in one short week, and all because an absent-minded man had left panion for the little episode I have nar- his traveling-sachel on the seat in a railroad station.

"Why, it just seems as though I'd been swopped off for somebody else," he said, with a great sigh of thankfulness. And though, as might be expected, Tad Thorne's religious knowledge was of the vaguest possible order. he somehow felt his heart going out thankfully to the Maker of such a beautiful world.

"There," said Tad, as, finishing trimming the pole, he rose to his feet and brushed off the twigs, "now for the trout."

The brook went dancing and laughing along at his side, with here and there a mimic water-fall, at the foot of which the foam and bubbles drifted about in frothy masses.

With fingers trembling a little with excitement, Tad fastened his line, with its heavy sinker and hook large enough for black bass, to the end of the pole. Adjusting the bait, he threw his line into the deepest part of the pool.

"I guess it isn't a very good day for trout, any way," he murmured, after about five minutes of letting his line drift along in the current, and pulling it up again. But stop! a little tug at the hook sent a thrill from his fingertips to his toes! With a jerk that would have landed a three-pound trout, Tad pulled out a chub about four inches long, which, with hook, line and sinkdebut in the fishing line-I mean Tad er, was immediately entangled in the alder branches over his head, requiring some ten minutes of perspiring effort to

"Trout ain't as big as I thought for," he said, half aloud, as he surveyed his prize. "It must take an awful lot of em to make a mess." Tad added, gravely, as he strung the small fish on a twig, and made his way a little further up-stream, in his ignorance passing over the deep pools and swelling eddies, which are generally the lurking-places of the spotted beauties.

By eleven o'clock, Tad, who had caught seven chubs, each about a finger in length, began to think that the charm of trouting had been considerably overstated. It was rather early in the season for mosquitoes, yet there were quite enough of them about to make it quite lively for a fisherman. It was churning-day at Deacon Whit- He had ascended the brook about two ney's, and Joe's eyes were fixed on the miles, and was tired and decidedly retreating form of Miss Smith's hired hungry; and, moreover, he found himhelp who had come over to bespeak self right n the heart of what seemed some buttermilk for Miss Smith's pig. to Tad's anaccustomed eyes a bound-

Sitting down on a stump, Tad gazed about him, wondering at the solemn in telling the story of his late humorous silence. Overhead, the wind sighed softly through the tops of the great pines. Red squirrels chittered in the spruce and hemlock trees, and a particularly venturesome one dropped a cone from an overhanging bough at his very feet, vanishing among the branches with wonderful swiftness, as Tad looked suddenly up. A partridge drummed in the distance, and a woodchuck scampered rapidly through the underbrush at a little way off. "I wonder if there are any bears in these woods," thought Tad, with an flume like a mill-race. uncomfortable thrill pervading his frame at the bear possibility. "I'd vet, what good would that do, where obeyed, andbears can climb and run rather better than most boys." In a juvenile paper he had read how one "boy hero," thus surprised, had hastily lashed his open jack-knife to the end of a pole, and vindictive kick at the fence-rail; now | slain him by a fortunate thrust. Tad mechanically took out his own jackknife, and opened the > of the best cast-iron. "I couldn't do much with that," he thought, "but I suppose" --

"G-T-T-T-T!" A terrible growl, accompanied by a rustling in the thicket of small pines close at hand, sent Tad's heart into his very throat! There was not even time to splice the knife to the fish-pole, for the growl and rustling were repeated louder and nearer than before!

The hackneved expression, "to sell his life dearly," flashed into Tad's mind, and, bracing himself against the tree-stump-somewhat in the

"Come one, come all-this rock shall fly From its firm base, as soon as I'

to get a new piece of pasteboard-this | his hand, and awaited the overcoming monster!

> CHAPTER IX. The spruce-bushes parted suddenly; but, instead of disclosing the form of a ferocious bear, nothing more formida-Joe Whitney, adorned with an expressive grin, was revealed. There were traces of recent tears on his freckled face; vet mirth beamed from his eye, and it was evident that the re-depressing effect on his animal spirits. "Thought I was a bear, didn't you, Tad?" he remarked, laughing. And Tad, too much relieved at the prospect of companionship to feel very angry, answered, with a feeble smile, that he was kind of startled, and made haste to change the subject.

ful small," said Tad, producing his not had the advantage of extended per- tions of 1884 called for legislation catch, with a rather disconsolate air. Joe started, whistled and then

"Why, you goosie!" he shouted, but so good-naturedly that it was impossible to be angry with him, "those ain't trout-they're chubs!"

Poor Tad felt tremendously mortified, but speedily forgot his mortification in real honest admiration of a string of trout-the largest of which would not weigh quite a quarter of a pound-that Joe brought out, together with an alder pole, from the thicket where he had enacted the bear.

"I dug some bait on the way, and caught these little fellows coming along," explained Joe, as he held them

"Oh, wouldn't I like to catch just one trout!" sighed Tad; and Joe stoutly assured him not to worry-he'd returned.

"Did it hurt you very much?" inquired Tad, presently, with delicate reference to the cause of his companion's detention.

"The pasteboard wasn't quite low down enough," said Joe, mournfully, and Tad asked no further questions. "Father didn't fleg me for just having a little fun with you and Miss Smith," Joe went on after a short pause, "but because he said I as good as lied when I made her think that you was deaf, and you think that she

"Well," returned Tad, hesitatingly, 'I don't know-you didn't mean to say what wasn't true, any way."

"No," said Joe, frankly; "I didn't! I when we don't mean to; anyhow, I do, diers of the Union will receive him as duced the Government to set aside vast colony of Victoria is about to undertake and I'm going to try and stop it."

was quite an admission for Joe. who was generally very chary of acknowledging his faults. But he had begun to feel a strong boyish affection for his companion, and spoke more of doing.

here?" asked Tad, breaking the little terest, sympathy and tradition, and approval of the President the Secreta- is navigable for small steamers to a silence that followed.

"Why, after father-got through with me," returned Joe, while a hushe was sent for to go over to Mis' ald. Emory's, all of a sudden, and, by gracious!" said Joe, rubbing his shoulunhinge out of the sockets before the butter came. Well, Nell, she took the butter down into the cellar kitchen to work it, and forgot to empt' the churn (as mother always does), and whilst she was down there," continued Joe, whose smile had begun to broaden. "I saw father coming up the walk, so what does I do but get hold of the churndasher again. Father, he came in. There, my son!' he says, 'I guess you've been punished enough-you can go now,' and then he took the churndasher right out of my hand. If mother hasn't got back, or if Nell don't come up-stairs," added Joe, with an he's churning buttermilk now."

irrepressible snicker, "I expect likely As Tad knew rather less than a Hottentot regarding the mysteries of churning, the point of Joe's little joke was not perfectly clear to his own mind. And perhaps, on second thought, Joe might have remembered that the tacit deception practiced toward his father was not exactly in keeping with his professed penitence of a moment or two previous, for he made no attempt to enlighten his companion, but, taking up his pole, said, rather hastily, that he guessed they'd better be getting toward home, as it was considerably past dinner-time. About half-way down Mill brook were the ruins of an old saw-mill. Here, among the great timbers below the dam, the water made deep eddies and shady nooks, where trout love to lie in the heat of the day.

"Throw in there, Tad," said Joe, pointing to a spot where the dark water rushed around the end of the broken

Tad secretly thought that any trout venturesome enough to trust himself in either have to run or climb a tree if I such a swift current would be swept saw one coming," he thought, "and down stream in a twinkling. But he

EQUAL TO THE SITUATION. Good gracious! had a sturgeon or young whale seized his bait! His line went cutting through the dark waters and the top of the alder pole bent omb nously.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

THE PRESIDENT'S TOUR. Why He May Be Assured of a Hearty

Welcome Wherever He Goes. Sometimes more than a personal interest attends the proposed tour of President Cleveland. We like to see ble than the good-humored features of an eminent man, to be, as it were, in in its immediate effects, but also as to hear his voice. There is the re- tude of the Government toward orand especially where the authority land grants. embodies the Nation's dignity.

Journeys of those who govern States of scores of like corporations that have cent punishment had not had a very are useful exhibitions of authority. received colossal land grants. There Diligent application to duty in an ex- have been many notable and scandalenment results from occasional contact | whole policy of subsidies from the pub-"I've got seven trout, but they're aw- go to Washington. Mr. Cleveland has Both political parties in their conven-A sedentary profession, the necessity of all unearned grants. The House minor offices and an early election to recovery of nearly two hundred million the Presidency have made hitherto im- aeres of the public domain squandered practicable the journey he now pro- upon speculators. Many members of and hard substance, useful in the in-welcome its Chief Magistrate wherever returned to their seats in the Senate he goes, the open hand and the hearty and deliberately defeated all of the welcome. If Mr. Buchanan had made bills except one or two of minor imsuch a progress he would have found portance, whose passage was not redistrust in the South and sullenness sisted by a lobby. To forfeit unearned in New England, faces reddening with grants was a legislative work. To the anger that was soon to flame into administer the law concerning the war, a sectional sentiment that would public domain, which included all have made sincere attention to a Na- land grant legislation, is an executive up before his companion's admiring tional Chief Magistrate impossible. act. For twenty years prior to the ad-While Grant and Garfield and Hayes vent of Cleveland Executive favoritism would have had a courteous welcome toward land grant corporations was in the South, it would have been a as apparent in the ruling of the Incourtesy disagreeable from its ostenta- terior Department, as, until the revulput him up to catching more than one tion. It is to be regretted that this sion in public sentiment some ten -perhaps half a dozen-before they feeling existed, and an inquiry into its years ago, was the recklessness of Concauses would be painful. So long as gress in voting away public lands upon any Chief Magistrate represented the the slightest pretexts. spirit of conquest he would have the strained, unnatural ceremoniouswe have learned it to be from the exing more the first representive they have seen areas outside the belt of their actual the exploration of the interior of New of that entirely reconstructed Union grant, from which they might recoup Gainea, by sending out an expedition which they imperilled their lives to themselves at their leisure. Areas so under the command of the Rev. J. save. As an evidence of this senti- withheld have been called indemnity Chalmers, a missionary who has acment-a restored Union and a people lands. At times the area so with- quired a thorough knowledge of the in concord, a nation saved against the drawn has been as large as the State of natives and great influence over them. openly to him than he was in the habit folly and madness of so many of its Minnesota. At the present time no Recent explorations in the German part "But what made you so long getting and Jackson governed, a Union of in- be withheld were it not that with the river named after the Empress Augusta not merely of geographical lines—the ry of the Interior has reversed the old- point two hundred and twenty-four journey of Mr. Cleveland will have a time policy of the Land-office, and by miles from its mouth. - N. Y. Ledger. National value. And wherever he goes a decision on the claim of the Atlantic morous smile began to hover about his he may take with him assurance of a & Pacific, which is clearly and justly mouth, "he set me churning, and went hearty welcome, not merely as a chief in the public interest as against coroff down town on an errand. Mother, magistrate, but as a man. - N. Y. Her- porate greed, has placed these lands

BLAINE'S INDORSEMENT.

ders, "I thought my arms would just | Why the Man from Maine Will Never Receive Independent Support. It is believed that the Republicans of Pennsylvania are the first to give Mr. Blaine an unequivocal indorsement for nomination in 1888. The resolution by which this is conveyed is peculiar, both in its terms and arrangement. After saying that the Republicans of the State "will view with high pleasure his nomination" in 1883, the plank says that "accident can not abate the love of a great party nor the admiration of a great people for a statesman true alike to his convictions and to his country." Mr. Blaine is not the only man who has not ceased to be a leader because of an "accident," but the accicountry to a party leader. The history tion. - New Haven News. of our polities has shown that party leaders have seldom been successful understood in Alaska at any rate. No Whig party leader ever won the They know all the nice points about prize, and only one was ever nomi- icebergs in Alaska. - St. Louis Repubnated. Webster, Clay, Usher, Mangum lican. and others were idols of their party. Cass, Benton, Calhoun, Davis, Marcy, as devoted to the Democratic party his own Burchard. - N. Y. Herald. had to vield to the Polks, Pierces, Van Burens, Buchanans and others who shall be fairly opened the responsibili> nominated for any thing else but their abilities as great party leaders. The "accident" of defeat will almost nomination is demanded by a party only, for such a candidate is extreme in his views, and it is the fair, candid non-extremist who catches the independent vote. It is the non-partisan unanimously for the old flag with a that causes the "accidents" in this little f and an appropriation with a country, and, in the absence of soulstirring issues, it is the opinions of the voter as to the character of the candidates that controls the votes. Has Mr. Blaine done any thing since 1884 that has commended him to the non-partisan voter; of the country that insures him against another "accident?" No one then has any doubts as to his ability, but they saw, as Mr. Fry, of Maire, said, "the smirch" on his garments and voted for his opponent. The partisans of the Republican State convention of Pennsylvania may not care for that "smirch," but the independent voters of the country still see it as they did in 1884, and it is the extreme of political folly "to invite defeat," as the Chicago Tribune said of him in 1876, "by the nomination of such a man."-Chicago News. b, and by have a navy. -N. Y. Herald. Free Press.

Grant, Haves and Garfield, who were

PROTECTING THE PEUPLE Democratic Attack on Rapacious and Greedy Land-Grant Corporations. Through the Secretary of the Interior the Administration has just rendered a decision important not only touch with him, to look upon his face, conspicuously significant of the attispect which society pays to authority, ganized speculators in Congressional The Atlantic & Pacific railway is one ecutive or legistative chamber is neces- ous failures to earn such grants, and sary to an enlightened discharge of public opinion has been wrought at authority, but a wider range of enlight- times to severe reprobation of the with the people, especially with the lic domain for the purpose or upon the people who remain at home and do not pretense of railway construction. sonal observation of the United States. | which would work complete forfeiture of labor, continuous public duty in had passed the necessary bills for the the Senate who sat in the convention Mr. Cleveland will see what no Pres- that nominated Blaine and voted year ident since Mr. Pierce could have seen upon the resolution which demanded in -a united country, a country glad to effect the passage of the House bills The Secretary of the Interior could welcome of conquered provinces-con- not revoke the acre subsidy of the Atlantic & Pacific or any other corporaand so long as human nature is what tion but under the general laws concerning the public domain it rested perience of ages we could expect noth- with him to determine one important point concerning these grants. Un-Mr. Cleveland, however, represents sanctioned by law, but fostered by the National sentiment as it has been past favoritism at Washington, the seen in no Administration since the practice had grown up of withhold- that strikes in the shoe trade during the first years of Mr. Pierce, before the re- ing from public pre-emption vast areas last year have cost in wages from peal of the Missouri compromise came of public domain upon the $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. Nearly half with evil omen to menace the Union. ground that, as the beneficiary this sum is said to have been lost in the Mr. Cleveland is the President of the corporations could not to a five months' strike in Winchester whole people. There were no bayo- certainty enjoy their full land grant, County, Mass. The Wilmington strike nets behind the ballots which elected they were entitled to indemnity of morocco workers lasted seven mouths him; no reflected bayonet power for any losses arising from shortage by and cost $225,000. The strikes at Sahate a square up and down lie as bad gleams in the authority he wields. reason of previous entries upon alteras the next one; but, come to study on The intellect, the culture, the wealth, nate sections, or from any cause. That of $3,000,000 in wages. Lesser strikes it over, I guess we fellows don't stop to the character of the North and South these speculators should have absolute bring up the total. think long enough, sometimes, and lie will unite to do him honor. The sol- assurance of this indemnity they in-subject to the operation of the homestead law. Sixty millions of people who may not concern themselves about details, will note with more or less satisfaction, accordingly as they have knowledge of vicious land grant legislation and of the attitude of successive administrations toward land grant railroads, that at last the Government considers the interest of the public cago Herald. DRIFT OF OPINION.

-As a roarer and snorter the ridiculous Riddleberger sizes up with Tuttle. - Philadelphia Record.

--- If ever there was a party which could ill afford public extravagance as dent of defeat is always fatal in this an issue it is the Republican organiza--John Sherman will not be mis-

----Mr. Blaine has been very chary of interviews and speeches in Ireland. Wright, Douglas and scores of others | He is apparently afraid of becoming -As soon as the Ohio campaign obeyed the Albany regency. Seward, ty for the drought and bad crops at Chase, Greeley, Hale, Cameron, Conk- the West will be unhesitatingly placed ling and other recognized Republican upon the Democratic party. -N. Y. leaders gave way to Fremont, Lincoln, World. --On the whole, the present summer has been favorable to Mr. Sherman. He is, perhaps, the only politician who, if chosen President, could invariably happen to a person whose reduce the country's ice bills .- Louisville Courier-Journal. -There is no uncertain tone about the platform of the Pennsylvania Republicans. They are heartily and > great big A .- Boston Globe. -The Republican party can attribute its downfall to the greed of its office-holders and its unprincipled leaders. The party once stood upon high moral ground, but it has fallen through the fact that the people no longer have confidence in it. -Cleve> land Plain Dealer. -We trust that the Northern people will soon learn that the Southern Confederacy is defunct-"died on the field of honor"-and that there is no more probability of a new Southern Confederacy than there is of a coufederacy between Virginia and the Northwestern States. This is our country. - Richmond Dispatch.

-The Republican organs which have been chuckling over George William Curtis' report on civil ser--The Democrats no sooner reached vice reform must find great comfort in Washington than they demanded that his statement in the latest issue of Harthe country be put in a state of defense. per's Weekly that "nobody supposes The contracts given out for new ves- that the course of any Republican sels show that the party in power is President would be more satisfacte co both earnest and patriotic. The days upon this subject than that of Presiof jobbery are over and the people will dent Cleveland has been."-Detroit SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

-There are $100,000,000 invested in the watch industry in this country. -A cannery in Oregon that is putting up ten thousand cans of peas a day turns out a great quantity of vinegar. which is made of juice obtained by boiling the pods of the peas. -The well-known West Point foundry situated at Cold Spring, is to be sold. The establishment has been in uninterrupted operation since 1819, and achieved fame during the rebellion from its heavy guns.

-An investigation of Spanish earthquakes by two Italian physicists shows that they are more common in the coast regions than in the interior, and in the south than in the north; also that they occur most frequently in the autumn and winter months. -A new material, termed celluvert, is now made by passing paper, or any fibrous form of cellulose, through a bath of nitric acid: the glutinous surfaces so produced are then pressed together and washed, when they form a very tough dustrial arts. - Boston Budget. -According to Dr. Hellman, the German investigator of lightning statistics, a house built on a limestone foundation -that is, in a district where the underring geological formation is limestone -is least exposed to danger from lightning. In a sandy region the danger is nine times as great, and a dwelling on loamy ground is twenty-two times as likely to be struck. -An artificial ivory, of cream whiteness and great hardness, is now made from good potatoes washed in diluted sulphuric acid, then boiled in the same solution until they become solid and dense. They are then washed free of the acid and slowly dried. This ivory can be dyed and turned and made useful in many ways. -Arkansaw Traveler. -A method of clarifying water has been devised by Prof. Dobroslavine, of St. Petersburg. He uses first a solation of perchloride of iron, and follows that with a solution of carbonate of soda. The quantities are said to be three grains of the perchloride of iron and four grains of the soda crystals per gallon of water .- Boston Tran--- The Shoe and Leather Reporter says

-The government of the Australian leaders, a Union such as Washington less than 25,000,000 acres would thus of New Guinea show that the large

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS. -Do the truth you know, and you shall learn the truth you need to know. -George MacDonald. -Talk is cheap. The man who talks too much gets so liberal that he gives himself away. - Baltimore American.

-Anger ventilated often hurries toward forgiveness; anger concealed often hardens into revenge .- Bulwer

-Busy lives, like busy waters, are generally pure. Stagnant lives, like rather than the claim of jobbers. - Chi- stagnant pools, breed corruption. - W.

-The young man who can go into a pawnshop without a quickening of the pulse and a heightening of the color has been there before. - Puck.

to be appreciated will find himself among uncalled for baggage after the limited express has gone by .- Whitehall -A shark was found high and dry on the beach at Savin Rock, Conn., recently. It is thought he was on his way to Wall street and got wrecked .-Rochester Express. -Every man has some peculiar train of thought which he falls back upon when alone. This, to a great degree, molds the man .- Dugald Stewart. -An article is printed on "How to Treat Your Wife." One good way would be to treat her as well as you did before you married her, but few married men do that -Somerville

-- Mistress (to applicant) - "What wages will you expect?" Applicant-"Well, mum, I ginerally draws so much a week, mum; and if the masther, after payin' the butcher an' grocery man on a Saturday night has any thin' left, it's share an' share aloike, mum."-Drake's Magazine.

-The Lancel announces the discovery of a new anæs: hetic in Australia, to which the name "drumine" is given. If some philanthropic genius will just Bites, go ahead in this line and discover pi- Bruises, anoine" and "cornetine," public con- Bunions. fidence in the practical value of science Corns, will be immensely strengthened .-

-A remarkable occurrence took place in an adjoining county one day last week. A horse was killed by lightning, and a newspaper account of the incident, instead of saying "a valuable horse" belonging to Mr. So-and-so, stated that the animal was "old and nearly worthless." This is the first time on record that a horse killed by lightning was not reported as "valuble."-Norristown Herald.

-Why does a young man wear a single barrel, center fire eye-glass, my son? Well, because that kind of a young man never understands more than half he sees, and by shutting of one-half the spectacle he manages to keep about half way up with the show. Does thee savy? Well, keep on a-savy in', and if you must wear a minocle keep both eyes wide open and weat your minocle over your mouth and you'll know more and look prettier - THOMAS KIRBY.

Banker,

GENERAL BANKING BUSINESS

Gives Especial Attention to Collections Buys and Sells Foreign and Domestic Exchange.

Negotiates Mortgage Loans

All business promptly attended to. [ly I. E. BONEBRAKE, Pres. | THEO. MOSHER, Cash. FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

OF ABILENE. Capital, $75,000. Surplus, $15,000.

ABILENE BANK.

C. H. LEBOLD, J. M. FISHER, J. E. HERBST. E. A. HERBST, Cashler.

Our individual liability is not limited, as is the case with stockholders of incorporated banks.

LEBOLD, FISHER & CO., Bankers. C. P. SHOLLENBERGER

DRS. FELTY & SHOLLENBERGER.

Graduates of Jefferson Medical Colleges Philadelphia, Pa. Office and residence on Buckeye, between Third and Fourth, formerly occupied by Dr. Garcelon Telephone connection. All calls prompt.y attended, day or night.

F. GARCELON, M. D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

Office over Faulkner's store, Broadway.
Residence corner of Seventh street and Buckeye avenue. Telephone connection.
Calls left at J. M. Gleissner's drug store, day or night, will receive prompt attent ABILENE, KANSAS.

M. KIRSCH,

PHYSICIAN. HOMEOPATHIC Residence on Broadway, between Fifth and Sixth, Abilene, Kan. Prompt attention given to calls in town or country, day os night.

S. STEELSMITH, Physician, Surgeon and Oculist,

Office over Palace Drug Store. Tele-

W. P. SEEDS, ATTORNEY AT LAW

ABILENE, KANSAS, STAMBAUGH, HURD & DEWEY,

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

ABILENE, KANSAS. ABSTRACTS

No one should pur mase real estate until they know the title is perfect.

T. DAVIDSON

has the most complete set of Abstracts in the County. 14 years' experience. Office over Post-office,

ABILENE. · KANSAS

CONTRACTOR & CARPENTER. ALL WORK GUARANTEED.

All kinds of work done. Shop and office, east of Chicago Lumber Yard, on Cottage Avenue. GIDEON FOLK

JOHN E. GEORGE'S EXCELSIOR BILLIARD HALL

SPRUCE STREET. Finest Billiard and Pool Tables in the city. Everyth ng first-class and conducted in a first class manner. -The man who sits down and waits

BEAST!

Mustang Liniment CURES

Sciatics, Lumbago, Rheumatism,

Sprains. Strains. Stitches. Stiff Joints, Backache, Galls, Sores, Spavin Cracks.

Scratches,

Eruptions, Hoof Ail, Sersw Worms Saddle Galls, Piles. THIS COOD OLD STEND-BY

Contracted

Muscles,

ecomplishes for every body exactly weat is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Lintment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident, The Housewife needs it for general family uss.

The Canaler needs it for his teams and his men. The Mechanic needs it always on his work The Miner needs it in case of em

The Pioneer needs it -can't get along without it. The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard. The Steamboat man or the Boatm it in liberal supply affeat and ashore The Horse-fancier needs it-it The Stock-grawer needs it-it will s housands of dollars and a world of trouble.

The Railroad man needs it and will need it so long as his life is a round of accidents and dangers.

The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life. limb and comfort which surround the pioneer.

The Merchant needs it about his stere among his exaployees. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at ones. Keep a Bottle in the House. Tis the best of Keep a Bettle in the Factory, Itsimmed use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages. Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.

ABILENE, KANSAS.

TRANSACTS A